

Fielders in Malawi

May 2010

If you cannot view the photos, or if you would like a printable version, please open the email attachment.

Working with victims of sexual assault

Amanda has had an opportunity to use her counseling skills as part of a new program to assist victims of sexual assault. She is helping to train counselors who will eventually serve as first responders. Sexual violence is a tremendous problem in Malawi. Amanda and her missionary colleagues hope to bring the healing power of Jesus Christ into this terrible situation.

Above: Amanda leading devotions

Below: With trainees and colleagues

Fielders in US this summer

We fly Monday 17th May. (Doesn't everyone love 17 hour plane rides with 2 and 4 year old boys? We do!) We look forward to seeing as many of you as possible.

The Warm Heart of Africa

We once again experienced the generosity of those we serve when one of my patients (whom I know to be very poor from having visited his house) brought a whole fish to us as a gift of thanks. Called chambo, the fish comes from Lake Malawi. Not being expert in gutting a whole fish, we promptly took it to our Zambian neighbors, who prepared a feast.

Prayer and Thanksgiving:

- Safety and sanity when travelling, followed by some much-needed rest
- For my colleagues at Partners in Hope; physician staffing levels will be low during our time away
- Successful completion of the maternity in Naivasha, Kenya
- For the Lord's provision during these past 18 months in Malawi